Who’s in the Room?
Objectives

1. Learn about the evolution of basic needs student services at UC San Diego.

2. Understand the experience and impact of food and housing insecurity on UC San Diego students.

3. Apply strategies to effectively engage in the spectrum of support required to address students’ basic needs.

4. Underline the future of basic needs efforts through institutionalization and stakeholder partnership.
Recognize the Need

- Expenses other than tuition can account for more than 60 percent of total cost of living and within the recent 4 decades the cost of living for students has increased by over 80 percent” (Global Food Initiative: Food and Housing Security at the University of California, 2017).

- Students who reported food insecurity, homelessness, or both also experienced physical and mental health consequences that were associated with lower academic achievement (CSU Study of Basic Needs, 2018).

- The UC is increasingly navigating basic needs challenges as 44 percent of undergraduate students and 26 percent of graduate students have reported food insecurity (UCUES, 2016; Graduate Well-being Survey, 2016).
Why Data Matters

- Problem identification and emergency food relief interventions.
- Data tells the story for us ... it is compelling.
- Data creates discussion and generates questions that focuses attention onto the issue.

What does food and housing insecurity look like?

UC San Diego Basic Needs Focus Group Report

UC San Diego Undergraduate Student
- “I have to plan out my whole week and have limits to what I can spend on food; maybe only one meal a day on campus because it is like $10 - $15 and maybe one coffee or a drink. And if I’m hungry on the rest of the days, I just fast and not eat until I go home.”

UC San Diego Graduate Researcher
- “I just want permission to sleep somewhere; it’s rainy out, its cold. I get woken up all the time to get told to move by campus police. I’m not causing any trouble, I just want to sleep…”

In their shoes (student perspective)...

- What resonates with you the most regarding this situation?
- What are you thinking?
- What are you feeling?
- How are you doing academically?
Interactive Exercise

- In your shoes (staff perspective)...
  - What are the concerns the student may have?
  - What do you think the student may need?
  - What are some resources you may be able to give them?
Interactive Exercise

Ways to start the conversation:

○ Have you noticed this week or this month that you have been budgeting for only 1 meal a day?

○ Have you had to decide between buying books, buying food, or paying rent?

○ Do you have enough food to eat? Are you able to pay your rent?
